Bluemold has been reported in several North Carolina counties. Tobacco growers who have not completed transplanting should be aware of the situation and plan accordingly.

There are three fungicides that are recommended. Fernam, Maneb & Zineb. Plantbeds should be treated once or twice a week depending on weather conditions.

A late blue attack can delay transplanting and will often cause poor stands of weak tobacco. Under favorable conditions, blue mold can attack field tobacco.

I would appreciate knowing of any blue mold in the county.

Last week we received several reports of growers losing tobacco plants because of thievery. Guess we will need to put plantbeds near the main dwelling to avoid this loss another year.

There are two new Appomattox dairymen going on DHIA this month. They are Norman Booth and Covington Brothers. This testing procedure is an important management tool that no dairyman should be without.

My concern is that there is only room for another four or five herds. If Appomattox dairymen fail to take advantage of this opportunity it may be some years before the opportunity comes along again.

Last week at Virginia Tech I had the opportunity of seeing the new Fossomatic machine work. This instrument tests milk for abnormal milk cells.

There are only three such machines in the Western Hemisphere. It is a $30,000 dollar precision instrument manufactured in Denmark and can test a sample every 16 seconds. Virginia dairymen will begin using the testing procedure June 1. The cost is 8 cents per cow per month. Only DHIA herds will have access to this important management tool.

Rules for Roasting

For a perfect pork loin roast — tender, juicy and delicious — follow these rules: 1. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. 2. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part, making certain it does not rest on fat or bone. 3. Do not add water. 4. Do not cover. 5. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) until the meat thermometer registers 170°F. which is well done.

GOOD NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS

BEETS

Select beets that are firm, round, with a slender tap root (the large main root), a rich, deep red color, and are smooth over most of the surface. Avoid elongated beets with round, scaly areas and wilted, flabby beets.

Wash beets and sort according to size. Trim tops, leaving ½ inch of stems and tap root.

Cook in boiling water until tender - - 20 to 30 minutes for small beets; 40 to 50 minutes for larger beets. Cool promptly in cold water. Peel. Leave baby beets whole. Cut medium or large beets in ½-inch cubes or slices; halve or quarter very large slices.

Freezing Beets

Pack cooked beets into containers, leaving ½-inch headspace. Seal. Freeze; store at 0°F. or below.

Canning Beets

Pack cooked beets in jars leaving ½-inch space at top. Add ½ teaspoon salt to pint jars; 1 teaspoon to quarts. Cover with boiling water leaving ½ inch headspace. Remove air bubbles by running spatula or knife between jar and food. Adjust jar lids.

Process in pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure (240°F.).
Pint jars - 30 minutes
Quart jars - 35 minutes

Pickled Beets

Pack cooked beets into jars. Add ½ teaspoon salt to pint jars; 1 teaspoon to quarts. Cover with boiling pickling syrup made with 2 cups vinegar and 2 cups sugar. Leave ½-inch headspace. Remove air bubbles by running spatula or knife between jar and food. Adjust jar lids.

Process in boiling water bath canner (212°F.).
Pint jars - 30 minutes
Quart jars - 30 minutes

The small amount of salt used adds flavor but may be omitted.
